Women's group receives recognition

The General Federation of Women's Clubs Contemporary Women of North County (CWONC) recently were recognized by the Community Services Commission of the city of San Marcos for years of volunteer efforts and contributions to the community. The award was presented by Allen Risley, commission chairman, to the organization's recent past Presidents Linda Bridges, Laura McPhee and Kathleen King, and current President Laura Collins. CWONC is a local women's volunteer organization involved in ongoing charitable and educational projects in the North County area. On behalf of the city of San Marcos, CWONC hosts a Mother's Day Tea in May, Breakfast with Santa in December and a luncheon for the Miss San Marcos pageant contestants, participates in the annual Carnival of Cultures and presents an annual Domestic Violence Prevention Program at the Community Center in October. For more information about CWONC, visit the club Web site at www.cwonc.org. From left are Bridges, McPhee, Collins, King and Risley.
